Introduction

This set of compendiums are about the family living in Banbury, England. Compendium C has additional photos that did not make it into Helga's England albums. They do not quite match the pages in the albums, so they are grouped by the subject. The family would travel often to Germany. Especially since it was easy to take the ferry across the English Channel to the Continent.

Two trips outside of England are included.

In April and May of 1967, the family traveled across the English Channel to visit relatives, and most memorable, to a skiing vacation in Ischgl, Tirol Austria. This trip is included because the family stayed with a farm family in Ischgl. Chris and Tina were still young (Chris was Three, and Tina was Seven), but the close contact with the farm family left lasting memories. The farm family was typical of the Tirol valley, primitive, the animals lived on the ground floor, the family upstairs, there was minimum electric lights, and because there was one indoor toilet there were bedpans under the beds.

In October 1970, Helga, Chris, and Tina travelled to the island Mallorca. Earlier in 1970 Tina had suffered from a burst Appendix and had a complicated recovery. So the family traveled to Mallorca to escape the dreary fall of Banbury England. Hans was not along, since he was still stationed in Thailand.
