State of BAHRAIN

Map

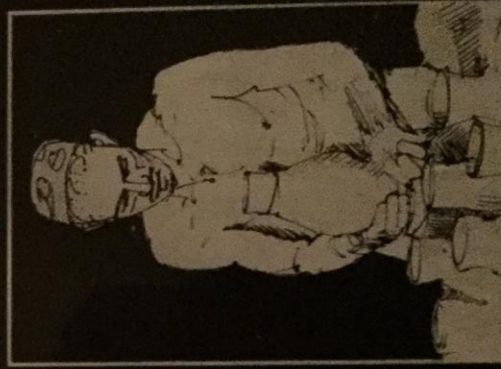

Muharrag, the largest island after Manama, has some of the most beautiful old houses - fine examples of the traditional building style. The wind towers, the intricately designed plaster motifs on the walls and the stained glass windows give these homes a unique arab atmosphere. These motifs and patterns found in the homes are echoed in the gold and silver jewelry made in Muharrag.

The pottery in the village of Aali has been handed down for generations. The distinctive forms of the pots can be traced to the age of Dilmun.

The women of the village of Budaiya weave a distinctive type of round mat. Karabab is known for its basket weaving. Braas is still made in Bahrain, fashioned into coffee pots, trays, and other decorative pieces. Boat building has been another form of handicraft in Bahrain, handed down for generations. A distinctive Bahraini women's dress style known as Thob Nasil is made with designs of trees and flowers. Women decorate their hands with henna in exquisite designs.

Art is an integral form of life. Bahrain is richer for its heritage of such varied art forms.
